

SCHOOL BOARD ORGANIZES; REGULARS AGAIN IN SADDLE.

Dr. G. W. Gallagher Re-elected President and Bert J. Thomas Secretary With Rose as Treasurer.

ALL OLD TEACHERS ELECTED

Except Four Who Did Not Apply. Some Members Object to Method of Electing the Teachers Without Considering New Applications—Session Lively One.

In a long and at times rather turbulent session last night, the new School Board organized for the ensuing year and elected all of the old teachers who were applicants. The Regulars held on to the organization and seldom gave the insurgents a look-in. The tax levy for the ensuing year will be considered at a special meeting to be held next Monday.

Dr. G. W. Gallagher, was re-elected President, and Bert J. Thomas, Secretary. Both have been very competent officers and their continuance in their positions was a personal tribute to their worth. The line-up of the board, however, was revealed in the election of a Treasurer. F. C. Rose was supported by the Regulars and C. H. Balesby by the insurgents. The vote was as follows: For Rose, White, Armstrong, Edie, Scott, Smith, Metzger, Mason, Davidson, Gallagher and Secretary Thomas; and for Balesby, Haynes, Fornwalt, Norton, Long, Buttermore, Guller, Bishop and R. O. Thomas.

Insurgency was further rebuked in the appointment of committees. James S. Darr, whose voice is frequently raised in protest against the organization, was rebuffed by Speaker Gallagher.

Darr was Chairman of the Property Committee, but was taken off this list entirely. He appears as end man on the special committee looking after the High School addition. Armstrong was continued at the head of two committees, Finance and Special Building. Joseph A. Mason now heads the Property Committee. The Finance Committee is announced by President Gallagher consists of four members, J. A. Armstrong, F. C. Rose, J. C. Long, and H. C. Norton. The New Building Committee is the same as last year, J. A. Armstrong, B. J. Thomas, Joseph Metzger, T. H. White and J. S. Darr. The Supply Committee is somewhat changed. Secretary Bert J. Thomas remains at its head and has as assistants, A. W. Bishop, J. R. Davidson, W. B. Scott and C. W. Payne.

The Property Committee is the largest of all. Each member was assigned a certain building. While Joseph A. Mason was appointed Chairman, a new member will look after the High School. John J. Buttermore was given this assignment. Chairman Mason looks after the South Side school. John A. Guller was assigned to the Second Ward and W. W. Smith to the Third. R. O. Thomas drew the old Fourth ward school. A. G. Fornwalt was given the Sixth ward; Charles H. Balesby got the seventh ward and Dr. E. B. Edie can walk to Greenwood for exercise.

There wasn't a hitch up to this point except the division over the election of the Treasurer. The proposition to put the money with one of the banks at interest was not broached. It was suggested some days ago by a member who later fell in line with the election of F. C. Rose as Treasurer and the Regulars would have batted this proposition. The member explained his position by saying the banks did not seem to take to the proposition.

With the Regulars in the saddle, Dr. T. H. White took up the duties of the leader. He was away all evening, nominating the temporary chairman, the permanent President, and moving that the Secretary cut the ballot of the board for the executive. Dr. White also nominated F. C. Rose, Treasurer. While Dr. White was running things in a way that would have made Hon. Seno E. Payne turn green with envy, Secretary Bert J. Thomas was keeping the Regulars in line better than Whip Dwight did when the insurgents in Congress were on the warpath. The Secretary had a roll call that was a gem. It led off with eight sure votes before the opposition could whisper. Insurgent Balesby suggested that the roll be called in alphabetical order but Speaker Gallagher refused to accede to such a distinct parliamentary advantage.

The board suspended operations long enough to hear Mrs. Elizabeth Clark, the Librarian, who spoke in behalf of a 4-mill tax levy for the library. Mrs. Clark's remarks were given below. The board then went through some routine motions.

Sterling, Hlabee & Matthews were re-elected Solicitors for the year, at a salary of $100, "provided they attend the regular meetings of the board." The battle of the night began when the election of teachers was taken up. Dr. White, in his capacity of floor leader, moved the board proceed with the election of a High School Principal. Bruce U. P. Coburn and P. G. Ober were nominated. Coburn received 14 votes and Ober 10.

The first murmur from the opposition came from J. R. Davidson when the commercial teacher under consideration. The Regulars had united on Miss Edythe B. Angle of Bridgeport, N. J., and were passing the other applicants with scant consideration. It wasn't announced that the board had secretly caucused on Miss Angle two meetings previous, waiting until interloping newspapers reporters and spectators had disappeared. At that meeting the vote of the board was pledged by a motion regularly put, but which was not entered on the minutes and came after the board had adjourned to meet a week or so later. "They couldn't hold a member to that pledge," one Regular explained it, but they all held. Director Davidson inquired whether it would not be wise to make some inquiries about the other applicants. He got scant satisfaction. Miss Angle's ability and fitness for the position were not called into question. The objections were purely impersonal and directed at the methods of the Regulars. Miss Angle was elected to the same position last year, but had previously accepted terms elsewhere. She was unanimously elected at a salary of $75 a month.

Flushed with the success achieved so far, the Regulars decided to keep going. The salary of Principal Coburn was fixed at $1,500 a year, payable $150 a month during the school term and $50 during the three summer months. This is an increase of $150 a year.

James S. Darr had a run in with President Gallagher when the proposition was advanced to elect the old High School teachers. Darr wants to maintain teaching in the schools and told the board so. In wanted the election of these old teachers postponed until this matter can be considered. President Gallagher insisted that his remarks were irrelevant and went ahead. S. P. Ashe, D. H. Smith, Clark Kistler, Miss Lena Zufall, Miss Alice Neal, Miss Ada Neal and Miss Helen Carroll were all re-elected. P. G. Coburn and Miss Lenora Carr did not appear for their former posts. The salary of Clark Kistler was advanced $10 a month and that of Miss Ada Neal $5. The other salaries were not changed.

The Ward Principals, George H. Bell, F. W. Jones and W. E. Atkinson, were re-elected at the same salaries. The intention is to transfer Jones to the West Side at an advanced salary, but this was not to be the new members. Dr. Edie whispered about it to the board. Jones is said to be a good man.

The calmer heads among the Regulars favored an adjournment at this time, but one or two members wanted to jam other things through. Director Mason moved that the old grade teachers, applying for positions, be elected by the board. This was opposed by the insurgents. Some of the new Directors were puzzled when only four vacancies appeared. J. R. Davidson and several others were far from satisfied. They were less assured when Superintendent Doffenbaugh gave the list only a negative endorsement. Superintendent Doffenbaugh, who is supposed to pick the teachers and recommend those to be retained, simply read the list and asked if there were any questions to be asked about each one. There were no questions. Superintendent Doffenbaugh indicated that there were some weak teachers but he furnished no detailed specifications.

While the new members were studying over the situation, Armstrong quietly moved their election. The roll was called. All voted yes except Balesby, who opposed the method, and Davidson, who declined to vote. Davidson said he didn't like that way of getting teachers. He said if there were new applicants who could make better teachers than the ones already in, they should be elected. "This is no charity institution," was his comment.

"But they only apply for any vacancies that might exist," explained Secretary Thomas.

"They are all vacancies," declared Davidson. "I do not recognize that there is a single position filled until we elect teachers to fill them."

Thirty-seven teachers were elected in the bunch and that leaves four vacancies in the grades, with a score or more of applications under consideration. (Continued on second page.)

Much Depends on Conference Taft Has Today

WASHINGTON, June 7.—President Taft spent most of the morning studying the eastern freight rate situation preparatory to the railroad conference today. He proposes to reach an agreement similar with that with the western lines.

The pending conference is of great scope than yesterday's and on its result depends definitely the attitude of the great eastern trunk lines and probably all the lines of the country. The government has nothing to offer for the eastern roads since they are not enjoined from putting their proposed rates into effect. Neither has the government filed suit under the Sherman anti-trust law. Threat of prosecution in Mr. Taft's only club.

The railroad authorities contend that the railroad executives won the victory in yesterday's conference by "advertising the question at issue from one of legality to one of reasonableness."

The arrangement will temporarily, at most, stop traffic associations. There will be an investigation whether the railroad violated the anti-trust law.

Black Attacks Law to Prevent Daltzell Victory

PITTSBURGH, June 7.—Dr. Robert J. Black announced to the County Commission today that he will attack the validity of the Congressional re-appointment act and make other sensational moves in his effort to prevent the nomination of John Daltzell.

"I am not going to stop the attack," said Black. "I have just begun to fight. I have detectives working now and they are learning interesting things."

A clerk's blunder in the House of representatives last session has given Black the opportunity to contest. The act places the territory between the Youghiogheny and Monongahela rivers in both the Thirty-second and Thirtieth districts. The clerk failed to send the amendment to the printer which eliminated the territory out of the Thirty-second district. Black will receive the nomination if he succeeds in getting the votes of this territory thrown out.

Parliament today voted $100,000 for the relief of the sufferers.

It Made His Wife Laugh.
At breakfast this said:
"George, you know the plumbers are coming this morning and the water will be shut off for a couple of days. Well, need some soap in the bathroom, and I thought you could carry up a few buckets of water from the cistern and all the tub."

"All right," he replied. He had found the best way to have peace at home was always to agree with his wife.

"You got the buckets, wife, and I'll get busy right away," he told her. She found a couple of pails, and he started to work. A dozen or more buckets of water and the water had been poured laboriously into the bathtub when on his next trip he found her waiting at the cistern. She was laughing at him. It was with some difficulty she managed finally to tell the hard-working hubby what the matter was. LAUGHING.

It had just occurred to her that the water pipes had not yet been disconnected and the faucet in the tub might just as well have been turned on.

SCOTSDALE TOWN COUNCIL MEETS.

All Members Present at Meeting Which Sets the Millage.

FUNDS MADE SAME AS LAST

Dogs Will Be Legislated Against in the Borough—Argument Over Fourth Avenue Paving Was Warm—Other Doings of Borough Officers.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, June 7.—Every member of Council was present at the regular monthly meeting last evening, and much business was done and a great deal of verbal fireworks were set off during the evening. The millage was set for the year. There was an attempt to add one mill for permanent improvements or to set one mill apart from the General fund levy, but both these propositions failed and the millage was set at nine mills, divided up the same as last year; five mills for General fund, 3 1/2 mills for sinking fund and 1/2 mill for water fund. The valuations for wards for this year are as follows:

First Ward	.....$1,421,000
Second Ward	.....575,000
Third Ward	.....1,211,000
Fourth Ward	.....50,000
Total	.....$3,257,000

The assessed valuation last year was $2,475,125, this year showing some increase. The Tax Collector reported having collected $200.08 of 1909 taxes and $129.19 of 1908 taxes.

Councilman W. H. Brown and William Butler of the Fourth Ward brought up the paving of Fourth avenue which Council had passed upon when Market and Grove street was to be paved that the next one after these to be paved would be Fourth avenue, and to be done when sufficient funds would come in. These two Fourth ward members thought the thing had come and made a motion that bids be asked for the improvement, but were voted down. Mr. Butler said that if such would be the case in voting down Fourth avenue's claim he would not sit in a body that would repudiate its word in such a matter. Other Councilmen argued that there was a great need of paving Grant avenue on account the scales being on this avenue and it being one of the main streets of town connecting two paved streets, than to pave a street away out at the edge of town. They also argued that people from that street and they did not want Fourth avenue paved. But Mr. and Mrs. Brown argued these matters were not pertinent to the question at hand. Mr. Brown replied that the Fourth avenue petition was fully signed up and that the ordinance and petition passed upon was the best that had ever been brought before Council. The matter finally got back where it started and the paving of Fourth avenue is hung up.

The Chicago fire how just received were reported to be without any brand or markings and the Secretary was instructed to take the matter up with the company. There was a complaint of a light taken away from Hickory and Brook streets and the Councilman placed there, and are lights were not set for Market and Chestnut and Collins and Courtlandt streets. The need of light on South Chestnut street was brought up and it was proposed to have a special meeting of Council and have the Loukes people from whom the residents of that street bought their lot present and see if the latter would not put the street in satisfactory shape to accept. Garfield avenue was up again. According to requests the engineer went out and gave a grade, a part of the people attended, the balance stayed away, some were dissatisfied and the committee reported that another lot of money had been spent uselessly. The calls for grades and then the indifference to them manifested the Councilmen seem to think is becoming wearing on the nerves. Some residents were present and complained about the grades. It was reported that the sewer from the brewery to Chestnut street is completed and Mr. Martz in Council thanked J. S. Johnston, the superintendent of the West Penn Railways Company for putting down steel rails and aiding the sewer workers to cross under the tracks.

The Fourth Ward house complaint of the firemen come up and Pylo said he would make an inspection of the building. The fireman ask for an addition to this back or a second story on the building, the latter direction having the most room. An electric sign ordinance was introduced that signs may be erected not less than eight feet above the sidewalk and not to extend over the curb. They must be entirely illuminated, no glass, reflex or cut out ones being used; they must be wholly of metal and may be swung in against the building in case of fire. Special decorative signs may be put up under restrictions made by the Police and Light Committee. The ordinance was referred back to the Committee. A motion was put in the dog ordinance that dogs running at large may be considered a public nuisance and may be caught and impounded for 24 hours and then if not reclaimed by the owner of $2 be killed, the killer to get 50 cents for the execution and burial. Any owner with an offending canine may be fined not less than $2 nor more than $10. The object of the section was to eliminate the shooting of dogs on the street. Berry objected to the section as there was no provision for earling for the dogs and he said that they should be shot and killed properly during their captivity or the borough would be a party to cruelty to animals. The ordinance was handed back for correction.

Dr. C. W. Melcoe presented the petition of 101 people who asked that dogs be muzzled all the year instead of just four months. He argued that in having a muzzling ordinance for four months in the year was a mitigation of danger from hydrophobia and that every month in the year one may die from the disease. He asserted that the medical profession can hold out no hope to anyone infected by rabies, although the Pasteur treatment may, at great inconvenience and cost, prevent infection. He cited that Englund had 23 deaths from rabies annually, which was reduced to nothing with an all year muzzling of dogs. He said that he pleaded particularly for the protection of the children, the grown people usually being able to kick a dog away, while a child caught by a dog would cover its face and scream while the animal would incite it. He said that the ordinance asked for would contemplate that one's dog on their own property, tugged with a tag, and owner's name would not need to be muzzled nor any dog being led by its owner along the street. The police were appointed the official dog killers last night, and the dog ordinance will be considered at the next meeting. There was a complaint about valuations that hang too low and there will be a crusade against these tax knockers.

THE KEYES SISTERS

Opened Run at the Solon Theatre Last Evening.

The Keyes Sisters in "Little Miss Nobody," introducing the dainty stars Helen and Dot, Milton Byron and Chester A. Keyes opened their season at the Solon theatre last night. The first required to interpret the fun and many merrits in "Little Miss Nobody" enlisted the service of 14 members of the company who collectively and individually made a most pleasing impression on the audience.

Miss Dot Keyes played the part of Cinderella, the leading feminine rule. Milton Byron who is leading man and will be remembered for last year, played the part of "Bill Harley." Helen Byron was seen as Jess and established herself in the hearts of the audience. Chester A. Keyes, the happy go lucky comedian, made a pronounced hit in his character of "Brick," the country boy. Charles Kyle made a good heavy man or villain and W. H. Hartigan made a most acceptable Squire.

Between the acts both sisters appeared for a specialty and Chester A. Keyes brought down the house with his funny songs and monologues. "Little Miss Nobody" will be repeated to night.

COUNCIL MEETING AT MT. PLEASANT.

All Members Present at Session Held Last Evening.

DOG QUARANTINE EXTENDED

Matter of Home For Volunteer Firemen in the Third Ward Will Be Settled This Week—Street Paving Contracts To Be Advertised.

Special to The Courier.

MT. PLEASANT, Pa., June 7.—The regular monthly meeting of the Borough Council was held in the City Hall last evening with every member present. Messrs. Goodman, Stoner, Denford, Palmer, Sullivan, McInerney, Stevens and President Henderson being present with Secretary M. A. King. Immediately after the meeting was called to order, and the minutes of the previous meeting read and approved, the chief burgess' report was read and accepted. It showed a total number of 17 arrests during the month, on a decrease of 100 per cent reflecting credit on the increased moral standard. A check for $101.90 accompanied the report. A number of visitors were present who made complaints against the sewerage, bad pavements and dirty alleys. All the above complaints were put in the hands of the street committee with power to act.

The specifications for the paving of South Diamond and Bridgeport streets have been revised by the Street Committee and the Borough Engineer and were read before the Council showing it to appear in an elaborate form. Council then deemed it wise to advertise in the Pittsburgh Dispatch, the Council's Daily Courier and the Greensburg Tribune for bids for the paving of the above streets and to have all bids in by the 21st of June. The work to be started immediately after July 9th.

At a recent meeting called especially for that purpose the Council had extended the quarantine recently placed on dogs in town by the State, to a distance of five miles on all sides of the Borough, pending any decision the State Livestock Sanitary Board might make. The State Board in a letter to the Borough Clerk commented the Council on its action, and said that they were considering placing a quarantine on all dogs in Greensburg and vicinity. The matter was referred to the committee on the subject of the State Livestock Sanitary Board and was discussed for several months and although yet in the hands of a property committee, it will probably be settled this week as G. P. Shupe has offered to invest $2,000 in a building if the firemen will erect it from him for a nominal sum of $10 per month. The Councilman looked upon this offer favorably and it will likely be accepted. The reports of the Property, Street, Sewer, Light and Water Committees then gave their reports. Nothing special was brought up during the course of these reports.

Discontinued Styles Cream of the Sale

Chickering, Grands and Knabe Uprights Among Them.

The Clean Sweep of All Discontinued Styles Includes Many High Class Pianos That Are as Choice as Any Instruments on Our Floors.

It is one of our intentions, during this "Preparatory Sale" this month, to dispose of every discontinued style and make of pianos on our floors.

Styles change in plans, the same as they do in gowns and millinery. Not so often, however—but they change.

Every piano maker changes his case designs as the styles in architecture and replaces them.

Every large piano dealer from time to time discontinues some of the makes he has been selling, and replaces them with others.

So, with us during this preparatory sale or housecleaning month we have in mind, to dispose of all discontinued styles and discontinued makes.

In no instance are there many instruments of the same styles under this heading—three or four at the most and in the great majority of cases, only one.

In some instances we have never had but the one piano that is now offered at a greatly reduced price, but in instances like this the one piano is in some special case, either some Art or Period design that was brought to "conquer" the stock, and at the price they are now marked are "bumps."

Another thing. Don't get in mind that these discontinued styles are in makes of little or no reputation. On the contrary, the majority of them are in makes of the very highest character and best reputation—such as the Chickering, Knabe, Hardman, Estey, etc.

The better the maker, the more particular he is about his case designs. Consequently, it is not infrequent for a maker of a high class piano to be discontinuing a style, about the time a maker of medium grade pianos is taking up a very similar type.

To point the moral of this—in this sale alone are:

Two discontinued styles of Price & Teepie Uprights; one priced $75 and the other $90 less than regular.

Two discontinued styles of Knabe Uprights; one priced $85, and the other $110 less than regular.

One discontinued style of Kurtzman Uprights; priced $70 less than regular.

And in each of these five instances the styles are as good as any on our floors—and vary but little from the styles that are now being put out in their stead—and the prices.

sons who pick up any of these few styles participate in the cream.

If you want a brand new piano—if you want a specially rich piano; if you want one of the best standard makes and want to buy it at a real bargain price, this is your opportunity—but the limitation in numbers of the instruments under this heading, will make it necessary for you to come right away. You will not be able to get the best in these very long.

TERMS DURING THIS PREPARATORY SALE.
All instruments included in this sale will be priced on a spot cash basis.

On the second-hand, used and discontinued styles, we will within reason, arrange terms to suit the convenience of our customers, by merely charging 6 per cent interest for the time taken.

On the expensive styles of new instruments we will arrange for carrying accounts for a short time, say 12 to 15 months, charging 6 per cent for the time taken.

Customers should keep in mind that the prices being set on these specially priced instruments are low—very low.

In many instances there is but a very little profit left—in many other instances none at all—so it is clear that this is a sale where the inducements to buy are not based upon unbalanced prices but upon making payments, but upon extraordinarily low prices for spot cash or very short time.

GOVERNMENT TO DROP ITS SUIT.

Result of Conference Between Taft and Railroad Officials.

EASILY REACH UNDERSTANDING

Only Purpose of Injunction Was To Prevent Roads From Raising Rates Until New Railway Bill Becomes a Law, Declares President.

Washington, June 7.—The twenty-two railroads of the middle west involved in the government injunction suit under the anti-trust law will withdraw all increased freight rates that they have filed with the interstate commerce commission since May 1, 1910, and will voluntarily submit them to the commission for a ruling as to their reasonableness.

These railroads also will refrain from filing any further advances until the pending administration railroad bill has become a law and the way has been opened for a legal investigation on the part of the interstate commerce commission into all rate increases.

The federal government in return for these concessions will have the temporary injunction which it has obtained vacated and will discontinue the suit for the dissolution of the western trunk line committee under the Sherman anti-trust law.

In effect the administration will substitute the operation of the new railroad legislation about to be enacted for the Sherman anti-trust law, as regards rate making by railroads. The agreement between the government and the railroads, as viewed here, lifts the menace that has overshadowed the transportation business of the country ever since Wickesman undertook to apply the Sherman anti-trust law to a situation that has been regarded for years as inevitable.

Takes in All the Railroads. The agreement reached between President Taft and representatives of the railroads will extend beyond the twenty-five roads comprising the western trunk line association. All of the eastern trunk lines, which recently filed increased rates and also the twenty-four railroads comprising the Chicago and Ohio River association, will be included in the agreement.

The agreement will confer with the president at the White House today, and it has been plainly hinted that it will join in the action taken by the western railroads.

The general effect of the agreement will be that all increases in freight rates that have been filed since May 1 and that have been contemplated by the railroads of the country within the next few months will be suspended in their operation for at least a year.

Taft's Statement. President Taft issued the following statement after the conference:

"E. P. Ripley, president of the Santa Fe railroad system; Walker D. Hines, acting chairman executive committee, Atchafalaya, Topoka and Santa Fe Railroad company; Frederick A. Delano, president of the Wabash Railroad company, and C. M. Patton, president of the Chicago Western railroad, a committee representing the twenty-four railroads in the defendant suit brought by the government in Missouri, in which Judge Dyer granted an injunction restraining increases in rates, met the president and the attorney general pursuant to a request sent to the president a few days since. The president stated to these gentlemen at the outset that the purpose of the suit was to prevent the proposed rate increases (which under the existing law could not be investigated at all until after they had become effective) so as to preserve the status of the new statute could be passed and the committee should have the power to investigate rate advances as soon as announced and before becoming effective.

"He stated further that he thought the railroad companies must withdraw the tariffs proposed and all other tariffs filed by them effective on or after June 1, 1910, and that none of them ought to file any new tariffs involving rate advances until the new law should be passed, assuming that it would be passed at the present session of congress.

"After conference the railroad companies announced that they would adopt the view expressed by the president and thereupon the president stated that if they did so his purpose in bringing the suit would be accomplished, and such result being accomplished he saw no occasion for pressing the suit and the same would be withdrawn."

Two Firemen Killed.

New York, June 7.—Two firemen met death, three were seriously injured and removed to the Hudson street hospital and twenty-one were overcome by smoke in a fierce blaze which did $75,000 damage in a big warehouse and storage plant on Washington street. The fire was one of the most spectacular the downtown section has seen in a long time.

DALZELL ACCUSED OF VOTE FRAUD.

PITTSBURGH, June 7.—Representative John Dalzell is not to return to Congress without a fight. Dr. R. J. Black, who opposed Dalzell, declares the apparent 300 majority for Dalzell has been secured by fraud, and he will contest the election. Speaker Cannon visited Dalzell's district and notified the voters that they would make a mistake if they did not return him to Congress.

BLACK TO DEMAND RECOUNT

Congressional Candidate Believes He Has Defeated Dalzell.

Pittsburgh, June 7.—Dr. R. J. Black of McKeesport, who opposed John Dalzell for the Republican nomination for congress in the Thirtieth district, made information before Alderman J. V. McNamara charging that Dalzell had defrauded out of nearly $2,000,000. The defendants are alleged to have represented to the corporation that the company's repair work would be done more cheaply by independent concerns than at the railroad's own shops.

When contracts were given to certain independent concerns, the bill charges, the railroad company began paying a long series of large overcharges, from which certain superintendents are declared to have obtained thousands of dollars.

BITTER STRUGGLE

Expected in Congress Today Over Railroad Bill.

Washington, June 7.—It is not known definitely whether the house leaders will be able to send the senate railroad bill to conference as planned.

After a canvass of the house the leaders announced that from thirty to thirty-five Republicans favored accepting the senate bill. Those who intend to vote to concur in that measure include all the insurgents and such regulars as Representative Hinkle of Illinois and Martin of South Dakota. At an informal meeting of the insurgents it was agreed that the senate bill suited them and for that reason it was decided to stand out against the motion to send the measure to conference.

Regular leaders in the senate and house very much desire that an opportunity shall be given to conference to further perfect the bill. They insist that a number of insurgent Democratic amendments adopted by the senate are crude and some of them at least will kill effectiveness unless they are whittled into better shape.

There is a division of opinion among the house Democrats as to what attitude the minority should assume toward the senate railroad bill. The leaders are inclined to the belief that the Democrats should vote to send the bill to conference. Democratic senators, among them Senator Hughes of Colorado and Bacon of Georgia, were on the house side urging their party brethren to adopt such a course. The Democrats will decide the issue. If they stand by the house organization the bill will go to conference. If they join with the insurgents the senate bill will be adopted.

AUTO PLOW BEING TESTED

Hundreds of Indiana Farmers Gather to See Tryout.

Washington, Ind. June 7.—Hundreds of southern Indiana farmers are assembling at the farm of John Graham north of this city, to see an automobile plow that can plow thirty acres a day and do the work even more perfectly than under the old system of guidance by hand. The automobile, when plowing, travels at a speed of two and one half to three miles an hour. After the first trip across the farm it automatically guides itself and if the field be free of stumps it could be started at one end of the farm one or two miles long and without any one accompanying would do the work perfectly.

RAILROAD WANTS BACK ITS MONEY.

Illinois Central Charges Graft Ring of Employees.

FOUR FORMER OFFICIALS SUED

Company Alleges Frauds of About $2,000,000 in Disbursements and Asks Former Officials For Accounting. Two Corporations Also Named.

Chicago, June 7.—Suits aggregating $2,000,000 were filed in the circuit court by the Illinois Central railroad against two corporations and four former officials of the railroad. The suits are the result, it is said, of the recent investigation made by high railroad officials into car repair and other charges.

Immediately following the filing of the suits Attorney Murray Nelson, acting for the railroad, went before Judge Walker and asked for the injunction against the defendants trying to dispose of their assets, including physical property and bank accounts.

The defendants in the double action are: American Car and Equipment company, West Pullman car works, J. C. Baker, president of the Chicago Car Repair company and former superintendent of machinery of the Illinois Central; William A. Henshaw, former superintendent of machinery for the Illinois Central; O. S. Keith, former superintendent of transportation of the Illinois Central; John M. Taylor, former general stockpiler of the Illinois Central. The filing of the suits came as a surprise.

The bill against the four former department heads alleges that the men entered into a conspiracy in June, 1908, and that from that date until April, 1910, the railroad company was defrauded out of nearly $2,000,000. The defendants are alleged to have represented to the corporation that the company's repair work would be done more cheaply by independent concerns than at the railroad's own shops.

When contracts were given to certain independent concerns, the bill charges, the railroad company began paying a long series of large overcharges, from which certain superintendents are declared to have obtained thousands of dollars.

THE HEIKE CASE

May Go To The Jury Some Time Tomorrow.

New York, June 7.—The defense of Charles R. Heike, the secretary of the Sugar trust, was practically completed before Judge Martin and a jury in the United States circuit court today and the government called witnesses in rebuttal. The case may go to the jury tomorrow afternoon.

Heike, in his testimony, made certain admissions which the government seemed to consider important. In his direct examination Heike maintained that as secretary he had to make up certain financial statements for the president, but that he knew little or nothing of the source of the figures or of some of the figures turned over to him.

It was not until Juror Lenak, who is a Wall Street banker, got to questioning him about a certain supplemental statement which had been drawn up that Heike admitted that he knew what the figures were for and that he had made up the figures.

These were the tables showing the sugar weights for which the company settled with the sugar merchants, the government weights at the dock and the real weights at the sugar with which the refinery was subsequently charged, showing the difference between the true weight and the false. Heike had insisted that the tables prepared by Schmeidler were for the raw sugar department and not for the refined sugar, but he admitted that he had to have these figures to make up his statements.

It was brought out by the defense through questions put to Heike that, except in the year 1904, the Williamsburgh refinery had shown in the years between 1901 and 1903 smaller earnings than any other refinery in the trust. He admitted to Schmeidler, however, that its superintendent, the defendant Gerbrecht, had received the largest salary of any superintendent.

REFUSE TO GO BACK TO WORK

Striking Miners Vote to Stay Out Until Grievances Are Settled.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa. June 7.—Mass meetings of the 12,000 striking miners workers of the Pennsylvania Coal company voted for the second time not to return to work until the company adjusts their grievances.

Despite the fact that officials of the United Mineworkers of America of this district and members of the company board have been daily urging the men to go back to work assuring them that when they do the company will consider and adjust their complaints, and also that members of their own committee also urged them to return, the men remained obdurate and declared they would keep up the strike until the company gives in.

Three Murdered in Home. Marshalltown, Ia. June 7.—James Harding, his wife and son, who lived sixteen miles southwest of this city, were found murdered in their home. Their heads were beaten to a pulp.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Billy Possum Woke Up

W HEN Jack and Evelyn were ready for bed they said daddy must tell them another animal tale. "All right," said daddy. "I'll tell you the tale of the possum's tail. You know a possum has no fur on his tail, but the rest of him is covered with nice warm fur, like mamma's hair."

"Well, a long time ago Billy Possum lived in a dogwood tree away out in the woods. One day along came Tommy McFudge and his chum, looking for rabbits. Tommy saw Billy Possum curled up in the tree and said, 'My, but that's a mighty big rabbit.' But his chum said it wasn't a rabbit at all, but must be a big squirrel."

"The boys ran toward the tree, but Billy Possum had heard what they said, so he decided he'd fool 'em. He let himself down over the limb and hunk by his tail, curling it around the limb. 'They'll think I'm dead,' he said to himself, 'and they won't bother me.' So he kept very still.

"Why, it's neither a rabbit nor a squirrel, for his tail is slick," said Tommy McFudge. "Look; he's as still as death. I do believe he's dead." "Don't fool yourself," said his chum. "A dead animal couldn't hang to a tree by his tail. He'd be sure to drop."

"Tommy went up and uncured Billy Possum's tail from around the limb and started to carry him home, holding him by his tail. Billy Possum never moved. He acted just like a dead animal. After Tommy had carried him quite a spell he got tired and let his chum take the possum. The chum swung Billy around his head by the tail, and that woke Billy up.

"Here, you," said Billy Possum; "don't you handle me that way. You might hurt me."

"Now, Jack," daddy said, "you're awful sleepy, but you're trying to make me think you're wide awake. You're just possumin'. Run along to bed."

NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Fore-runner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Union, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the forerunner of baldness, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair, becomes lifeless, and in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newbro's Heipolide kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundance. Heipolide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market today.

"I'm the chief officer, Watts is my name, miss. But if you mean to tell me that old David Verity has come here to Brazil to this rotten— Sorry, miss, but you got me a turn, you did. An' Dickey Bulmer is to go too?"

"Yes, or he soon will be here. I rode on in advance of the others."

"Well, there— if that don't beat cock-doodle!" cried Watts. "Well, I'll say it. Well, I'll say it. An' Miss Iris! Iris! She's up! There'll be the deuce an' all to pay now 'tween 'im an' Hoizer an' the deuce! Colonel!"

"Who is Mr. Hoizer?" asked the girl calmly.

"He is, or was, our second mate, but since the colonel an' 'o got to loggerheads 'o took an' raised a corps of scouts. Some of our fellows joined, but not me. Killin' other folks don't agree with me a little bit."

"And the colonel— what is his name?" broke in Carmela.

"San Benavides, miss. Captain 'o was on Fernando Noronha. 'E took a mighty quick jump after we kem ashore. But I ax your pardon for ramblin' on in this silly way. Won't you go inside?"

The Senhora de Sylva might have been seized with mortal illness if judged solely by the manner in which she staggered into her father's house, threw her arms around the neck of an elderly serving woman, whom she recognized by her appearance, and almost fatigued—not quite, but on the verge, much nearer than such a strong-minded young lady would have thought possible in an hour earlier.

Maria screamed loudly. Tongue tied at first, she was badly scared when Carmela collapsed on her ample bosom. Restoratives and emollients followed. Carmela asked to be taken to a room where she might wash and shake the dust from her hair and clothes. Maria considered ways and means. Every room in the big house was crowded.

"Who is in my own apartment?" demanded Carmela.

Even before the answer was forthcoming she guessed the truth. The Senhora Inez, of course. Those blue eyes of hers flashed dangerously.

"What, then? Does this woman come here and take all?" she cried.

"Ah, pequinhão, do not be angry!" came the answer. "The good God could tell that you would come from Paris today? And the Senhora Inez, who was to give place to you? She is so kind, so unselfish! All the men adore her."

"So I hear," murmured Carmela, trying to still the passion that threatened in her heart, since she was aware that neither Maria nor any other among the old domestics at Las Flores knew of her engagement, and pride was now coming to her aid.

"She will have no word to say to any of them," gabbled Maria. "There is a young Englishman, well, it is no affair of mine, but I am told she loves him, yet is promised to another, an old man now. Santa Maria! That would not suit me if I were her age!"

This homcoming of Carmela was quite an important event in its way. At first she bore the semblance of a mere disillusionment such as any girl might experience under like circumstances. She had been taken from Las Flores to occupy a palace at Rio de Janeiro and was driven from the palace to the hotel life of the continent. During two years she had not seen either father or lover, and lovers of the San Benavides ilk are apt to console themselves during these prolonged intervals. Yet Carmela's shattered romance was the pivot on which rested the future of Brazil.

Had she gone straight to Iris on leaving her father and made known the astounding tidings that Verity and Bulmer were riding up the Mojoto valley barely three miles away Iris would surely have devised some means of acquainting Philip Hoizer with the fact. In that event, assuming that he waited his arrival, the first march of an extended reconnaissance which he thought desirable would necessarily be postponed. And then—well, the recent history of Brazil would have to be rewritten, since there could not be the slightest doubt that Dom Cordeiro de Sylva would never have occupied the presidential chair again.

It would be idle now to inquire too closely into the springs of Philip's resolve to take service under a foreign flag. Perhaps the lukewarm state of affairs at Las Flores, where there was no mean between landing and soldiering, was intolerable to a spirited young man. Perhaps, San Benavides, constantly riding in from the front, irritated him beyond endurance by his superior airs, or it may be that a growing belief in Iris's determination to sacrifice herself by redeeming her bond made him careless as to what happened in the near future. The outcome of one or all of these influences was that he sought and was readily given a commission in the army of liberation. Like all sailors, he preferred the mounted arm, and De Sylva, having the highest opinion of his thoroughness, actually appointed him to command a branch of the intelligence department.

Philip, trained to pin his faith in maps and charts, came to the conclusion that Las Flores could be attacked from the rear, which lay to the north-west. The Brazilians laughed at the notion. Where were the troops to come from? Barracks must bring all his men by sea. There were none stationed in those wild mountains.

"Hotter go and make sure," quoth Philip.

He ascertained the president's intentions as to the next twenty-four hours, assembled his little body of scouts, saw to their forage and equipment, took leave of Iris and hurried off.

When two stout and elderly fellow countrymen of his climbed the last mile of the rough valley beneath the Las Flores slope Philip and his troop were a league or more beyond the Mojoto's watershed.

If San Benavides were really Carmela's accepted lover, then, indeed, Iris had good cause for foreboding. Through the Brazilians' hands she directly avowed his passion, since he knew quite well that she would refuse to listen, she could not be blind to his infatuation. Only the threat of her dire displeasure had restrained Hoizer from an open quarrel with him. Her position, difficult enough already, would become intolerable if De Sylva's daughter became jealous, and she had no doubt whatsoever that San Benavides would seek to propitiate the woman he loved by callously telling the woman he had promised to marry that his affections were bestowed elsewhere.

Her heart sank when she discovered this new macabre in her sea of troubles, but here was Carmela herself speaking to her and in English.

"So you are Iris York?" the girl was saying. "I have heard so much of you, yet you are so utterly different from what I imagined."

"You have heard of me?" repeated Iris, and surprise helped her to smile with something of her wonted self-possession.

"Yes, on board the steamer. We sailed from Southampton and had little else to talk of during the voyage. But of course, you cannot understand. Among my fellow passengers were your uncle and Mr. Bulmer."

Iris had long relinquished any hope of communicating with Hoizer until the present deadlock in the operations of the two armies was a thing of the past. Completely mystified, now by Carmela's glib reference to the two men, whose names were so often in her thoughts, though seldom on her lips, she could only gaze at the Senhora de Sylva in silent bewilderment.

Carmela, feeling that she was gaining ground rapidly, affected a note of polite regret.

"Please forgive me for being so abrupt. Perhaps I ought to have prepared you. But it is quite true, Mr. Verity and Mr. Bulmer came with me from Europe. We all reached Pernambuco the day before yesterday. Indeed, if it were not for them and the assistance they gave me I would not be here now. No one recognized me, fortunately, and I hope you will not be vexed—I passed as Mr. Verity's governess. In fact, I took your place for the time."

"If Mr. Verity and Mr. Bulmer are in Brazil?" Iris began tremulously, but Carmela broke in with a shrill laugh.

"There is no 'if.' Look below there, near my father's tent. They have arrived. They are asking for you. Come, let us meet them! I must see my father before he departs."

Neuralgia of the Pocketbook—It's An Awful Disease.

Symptoms:—Pocketbook becomes swollen and is very painful and Sensitive to the "Touch."

promised Dom Cordeiro to look after the hospital appliances that are so much needed by the poor soldiers, but the Senhora de Sylva will attend to that much more effectively than I."

Carmela, of course, did not believe in a woman's competency in such a vital matter. She was ever prepared to spring, to strike, to wrench their plans to suit her own ends; but, contrived as she might, she could not succeed in leaving Iris alone with Bulmer. Full of devices, she was felled at each turn. The day wore, the sun went down, the small sky made beautiful a prelude of clouds, but never a word in privacy did Iris exchange with her husband to be. Carmela's malice was not hidden from her, but she despised it. There was some ease for her tortured brain in deferring it. If the Senhora de Sylva had only understood how thoroughly the Englishwoman loathed her petty jealousy it was possible that the few remaining hours of their enforced intimacy might have been rendered less irksome.

The future is the most cunning of playwrights. No man may tell what the next scene shall be. And no man nor any woman could guess the mad revel of hate and war that would rage that night around the placid household of Las Flores.

Behind the veranda was a huge billiard room converted by the exigencies of the campaign into a dining hall for the more intimate of the company. The Brazilians, the sailors, some sick or wounded officers who were not confined to bed, even the household servants, took their meals there in common. Supper was served soon after 9 o'clock. When cigars and cigarettes were lighted and the company broke up into laughing, gossiping, noisy groups, the place looked more like a popular continental cafe than a room in a private mansion.

Though De Sylva, General Russo, San Benavides and some score of members of the president's staff who usually dined at the table, were now absent, there was no lack of lively chatter. A very babel of tongues mixed in amity. The prevalent note was one of cheery animation. Carmela exerted herself to win popularity, and a president's daughter need not put forth very strenuous efforts in that direction to be acclaimed by most.

Iris was listening with real interest to Verity's description of the finding of Macfarlane in the Andromeda's boat by a Cardiff bound collier three days after he had drifted away from Fernando Noronha.

"The yarn came to us through the consul at Pernambuco," he said. "Evidently, from what you tell me it's all right. Poor old Mac had a bad time afore 'e was picked up, but 'e was alive, an' I'm jolly glad of it, for 'e'll be a first rate witness 'en this business comes up in court."

"Ver court?" demanded Coke sharply.

"The court that settles our claim, of course," retorted Verity, with a quick ferret look at his fellow conspirator.

"There'll be no claim. The president means to stump up in style. You take my tip an' shut up about courts," said Coke.

"It'll cost Brazil a tidy penny," remarked Bulmer thoughtfully.

A criado, a nondescript manservant attached to the household, stooped over Iris and whispered something. She gathered that she was wanted in the patero, or courtyard, which, owing to the construction of the house, stood on one side instead of in front, where the lawn occupied its usual position.

"Who is it?" she asked.

"Colonel San Benavides, senhora."

"Tell him to wait," she said, hoping to gain a moment wherein to decide how best to act.

"It is urgent, senhora—no mesmo tempo, the colonel said."

"Go! That is my answer."

Iris had no wish to meet San Benavides. If she were seen with him in the dark patero at this late hour, she would be added to the fire of Carmela's covert glances watching her from the other end of the long room. What was to be done? Why not send under the trees?

most of the same height and dressed somewhat alike in covered muslin. It would be an amusing mistake, though annoying perhaps to San Benavides. At any rate, Carmela would not object, and Iris was fully resolved not to keep the trust in person.

She walked straight to her enemy. "Colonel San Benavides awaits you in the patero," she said in English. "Awaits me?"

There was no mistaking the gleam in those jet black eyes. The smoldering fire flamed into furnace heat at the implied indignity of such a mandate being delivered by Iris.

"I suppose so," said Iris carelessly. "A servant brought the message. He came to me in the first instance, but I am just going to my room to pack my few belongings. We leave here at daybreak, you know."

So at last Carmela would learn the truth. Salvador was out there alone. She would soon judge him. If he were innocent she would know. If he had merely been made the sport of a designing woman she was ready to forgive. In a more amiable mood than she had displayed at any moment since her arrival at Las Flores, Carmela hastened along a dark corridor, crossed a bare hall, passed through a porch and searched the shadows of the patero for the form of her one time lover.

A voice whispered in French: "Come quickly, senhora. I pray you."

It startled her to find San Benavides talking French until it occurred to her that Iris and he must converse in that language or hardly at all. The thought was disquieting. The volcano stirred again.

"Senhora, je vous prie!" again pleaded the man, who was on horseback under the trees.

TEDDY EXPLAINS THE "BIG STICK."

Tells English Editors What the Expression Means.

MANY GINNERS FOR COLONEL

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt Sit at Table
With King and Queen, After Which English Journalists Take Colonel in Hand—Knows How Far To Go.

London, June 7.—Former President Theodore Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt were entertained at luncheon by King George and Queen Mary at Marlborough house.

Much to his disappointment Roosevelt did not see Marie Callender, who had taken luncheon with the king. The colonel later was guest at a dinner given by the Fauntleroy society at the Hotel Savoy. Here there was sociological talk especially with reference to the protection of big game.

From this dinner the colonel went straight to St. James' hall, where he was entertained by the American journalists in London. The most representative gathering that ever assembled at one time was on hand to greet the ex-president. The company included a majority of the editors and the best known publicists of London, as well as a large number from the provinces and Ireland and Scotland. The colonel spoke at considerable length.

"I have thoroughly enjoyed my stay in England," he said. "But, judging from your comments some of you have not shared my enjoyment." He referred further to his Guild hall speech which was foremost evidently in the minds not only of his hearers but of himself.

He added that he had received an inquiry from a London paper asking him if he was really going to deliver his Roanoke speech at Oxford. "Evidently," he went on, "they are afraid I am going to break off into another Guild hall speech, but I will try not to overplay my hand. This paper evidently thinks that I will be unable to resist the temptation of speaking again with frankness and open nature and once more addressing the British public with the same sincerity which has sometimes failed to endear me to the people of my own country."

He then explained the benefit of his hearers the origin of the expression "The Big Stick," which he said occurred in a speech answering certain gentlemen, all ardent believers in the policy of peace "with insinuations and who after attacking various nations, including Great Britain, voted down his proposals for a greater navy."

"My emphasis," said the colonel, "was on the words 'walk softly' and not on 'the big stick.'"

Referring to the growth of the United States Roosevelt said: "So far from his being a menace to England, the chances of trouble between the countries had dwindled in exactly the reverse ratio to the growth of the strength of the United States."

In closing Roosevelt said that the moment a nation felt sufficiently sure of itself to be able to pass things by good humoredly it became a pleasant companion for itself as well as for the rest of the world.

STOPPED BY CUBANS.

Armed Party Boards English Schooner on High Seas.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 7.—The British schooner Marion May, which arrived here from Nassau, Bahamas Islands, reported being stopped and searched six miles off Cape Nairn Cuba, by the Cuban revenue cutter Dairo.

An armed party from the cutter boarded the schooner, removed the hatch and overhauled the cargo. One officer in charge insisted upon examining the ship's papers and manifest. No resistance was offered by the crew of the schooner, although the captain entered a strong protest against what he termed unwarrantable interference, outside of Cuban territorial waters.

The schooner was becalmed at the time and was greatly in need of food and water. A request for a supply of these necessities, the captain reports, was refused and he was ordered to proceed on his voyage.

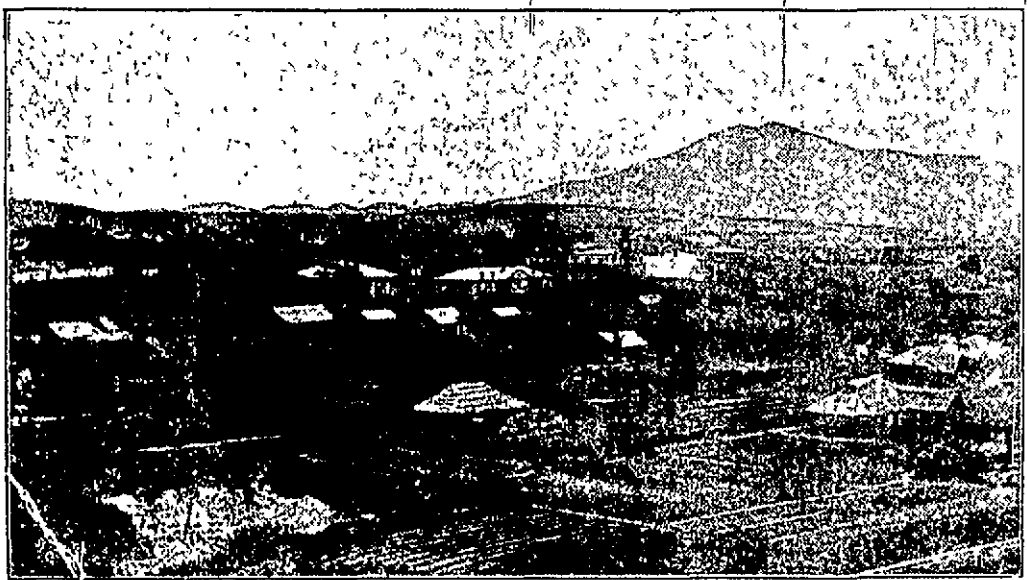

Representations have been made to the colonial government here and the affair will be investigated.

ENGLISH VICTIMS ARRIVE

Will Testify Against Alleged Philadelphia Confidence Man.

New York, June 7.—Rev. William Bladen and Edgar Morris of England, just arrived, are to testify before the federal grand jury in Philadelphia against two men named Starkoff and Post, alleged confidence men under arrest in Philadelphia, who were said to have been associated with "Red" Adams, who is now serving a sentence in the federal prison at Atlanta. On "Red Adams' specialty was to note in the English newspapers the deaths of persons who looked as if they might have left money and then in each case to write to the deceased person as if a dear old chum, telling him that they had struck the reef of gold at last and that all the deceased had to do was to come over and fill his pockets. The idea was that the heirs would come and be skinned with fake mining stock.

An Expert's Opinion Of Skin Diseases.

A prominent national expert on skin diseases who came to the familiar city says that in all his scientific experience he has never found so hard a case to conquer as Eczema. Yet he does not hesitate to recommend ZIMO as a most successful remedy for the treatment of Eczema, itching skin diseases, dermatitis, pimples, blackheads and all other diseases of the skin and scalp. He says that not only do its curative qualities make it popular but also the fact that it is a clean, liquid remedy for external use. A great improvement over the old style greasy salves and lotions which are not only unpleasant to use but do not destroy the germ life that causes the disease. ZIMO draws the germs to the surface and destroys them, leaving the skin clear and healthy. Can be used freely on infants. Gilman & Company, Connellsville, and D. C. Lason, Dunbar, will gladly supply those who call with a free sample bottle of ZIMO and a booklet which explains in simple language all about skin diseases and how to cure yourself at home with ZIMO.

Trenton, N. J., June 7.—Mrs. Matilda M. Cheesbrough of Newton, Mass., recently convicted of smuggling in the United States district court, was fined $5,000 by Judge Bellah.

In imposing sentence the court said that the jury's recommendation for mercy precluded him from including a term of imprisonment in the sentence. He said no woman who had been so fine provided by the statutes should not be imposed. Judge Bellah reiterated his determination to do all within his power to break up the practice of smuggling by wealthy tourists.
